

Class Journal

Dictate Information

When children share their thoughts (dictate) for you to write, they learn so much about written language. They see that written words are separate and that there are spaces between words. They see that words are written from left to right, stay the same, and can be turned into spoken words.

Look What We're Learning

Writing

- Enjoy writing and engage in writing activities individually or with a group
- Watch teacher write sentences and read them aloud (up to 3)
- Understand there is a way to write that conveys meaning

Oral Language

- Share opinions and ideas in conversation and discussion
- Use new words linked to content being taught